Emmanuel Youth at Camp HOPE

Local Youth Spend Vacation Time Bringing Hope to Others

By Pastor Jacob Young, Ph.D., and Alexandra Scotland, Youth Leader

From July 16–22 (Sunday through Saturday), a total of eighteen youth and young adult/ chaperons of Emmanuel United Methodist Church (EUMC), Beltsville, participated in the Christian Appalachian Mountain Project, Helping Other People Enthusiastically (CAMP HOPE), which is a home repair ministry in Cumberland, MD (Allegany County).

"CAMP HOPE Inc. is a nonprofit organization consisting of volunteers who gather every summer in Frostburg, Maryland. These volunteers help needy families and individuals from Allegany County and the surrounding areas to upgrade their homes" (www.camphopemission. com). CAMP HOPE represents a number of different Christian churches geared towards youth/ teenagers and adults. "Our goal is to provide an environment where today's youth can celebrate the joy of Christian Fellowship while helping others in need. Each summer, over 400 youth and adults from various churches and

Fun in the Creek with Cub Pack 1031

Cub Scouts looking for rocks and having fun in Little Paint Branch Creek

Cub Scout Pack 1031 continued their fun in the outdoors with a bike ride in late July and a creek walk along Little Paint Branch Trail on August 14.

We also got terribly wet at National Night Out-many thanks to Webelos Scout Paul G and the Schwartz family for helping at the pack table.

On the creek walk, we saw a catfish caught by some folks fishing. They were happy to show us the catfish before they released it. We also saw a goldfish! In addition, we studied the rocks found in the creek and talked about what rocks are found in Beltsville and how rocks and minerals are used

Artist rendition of the current new front entrance of the Patuxent Wildlife Visitor Center

Beltsville Business Helps Save Our Birds

Longtime resident Jay Williams of the Jay Williams Design Company in Beltsville has recently been hired by the Patuxent Wildlife Center off Powder Mill Rd to provide a mural-like window display of wildlife images across all of the front entrance windows of its visitor center. The primary reason, other than having an interesting, educational, and attractive display of all forms of Maryland and other wildlife, is to protect birds in our area and migratory birds from injuries and fatal accidents by colliding into clear, glass windows. Because birds cannot see clear glass or reflective windows, it has been proven that they attempt to fly into them, sometimes very fast, thinking they are open spaces. This display, printed on perforated film, appears to us and the birds as a solid wall, yet from inside the windows appear clear with a tint.

Bird collision is a major problem all over our country and beyond. Jay worked with other artists who had provided their artwork of the many silhouettes for this project. The primary artist, Lynne Parks, is also very involved with Lights Out Baltimore, which is a program to create awareness of this tragic issue and also make various, creative efforts to resolve it. As the name indicates, the program encourages turning off lights in buildings. The lights disorient migratory birds causing way, way too many of these beautiful creatures to collide into what appears to them as open spaces, then falling to the streets below and perishing. There are over 20 other lights out programs in North America. Some are in Toronto; New York; Detroit; Minnesota; Washington, DC; and Chicago. For more detailed information about this important program, go to www.lightsoutbaltimore.org.

Bring the family and see this display in color at the National Wildlife Visitor Center, 10901 Scarlet Tanager Loop, Laurel, MD 20708 (off Powder Mill Rd.), 301.497.5772, www.fws.gov/refuge/Patuxent/visit/NWVC.html.

denominations repair between 55 and 60 homes during a four-week period" (www.camphopemission. com). This summer marks CAMP HOPE's 40th year.

CAMP HOPE is in session for four weeks each summer, with each church group attending for one week. The week begins on Sunday afternoon and ends on Saturday morning. Throughout the week, CAMP HOPE provides daily worship services including prayer, songs, music, scripture, home improvement and repair, recreational activities, and fellowship. Everyone stays in the dorms at Frostburg State University.

EUMC, Beltsville, worked on 2 projects this summer. At one house, a group of adult leaders and youth worked on a 36-foot front porch ramp, and at the other house, a group worked on rebuilding a front porch, installing a gutter, and covering water damage on the side of the house. Both projects were completed successfully, and both homeowners were excited and happy to have their homes repaired for their needs.

Everyone involved feels the impact of God's love through CAMP HOPE. Participating youth and adults say the experience enhances their personal relationship with God by providing handson outreach. Many youth return year after year.

The individuals and families served receive home rehabilitation, home winterization, and home safety improvements as well as an experience of Christian fellowship and God's love Everyone also gains new hope for the future in action. Emmanuel United Methodist Church in Beltsville is proud of the compassion, dedication, and willingness of youth and young adults for taking part in the program geared towards helping others. As pastor, I have been preaching a series on parables related to the Good Samaritan at times throughout the year. The church and its members have always been sensitive to the needs of others and are always willing to in our homes and in our community.

We are now gearing up for our fall recruiting. Look for us at back-to-school nights in the local schools. Our Join Scouting Night will be Monday, September 18, at 7 pm in the cafeteria at Beltsville Academy. Each year, the pack has activities such as camping, hiking, our annual Pinewood Derby, and campfires during the year. We also do participatory citizenship along Little Paint Branch Trail, our toy drive, and Scouting for Food. Along the way we learn responsibility and citizenship, play games, and have lots of fun.

If you interested in discovering the fun of Cub Scouts with your son, please contact Regina Halper through www.BeAScout.org or come to our Join Scouting Night on September 18.

Back-to-School 2017

It is back to school time again. Last year at this time, we looked at the traditional office suites, free books, and tools to learn programming and new languages. This year we will stay with the theme but look at other learning tools.

Encyclopedias and Dictionaries

Research for many children begins with the encyclopedia. When I was young, we went to the library and read the World Book Encyclopedia. Today, most people know about Wikipedia (https:// www.wikipedia.com). Wikipedia is an "open" encyclopedia maintained by volunteers. Anyone that wants to help can sign up and become an editor. You may think that this makes the encyclopedia inaccurate, and it is true that you must read the articles and references with this in mind, but it has been shown that Wikipedia works and is generally considered a very good resource. Wikipedia even provides a reference page to other online encyclopedias (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/List_of_online_encyclopedias). Many of these are recognizable names like Encyclopaedia Britannica available free online.

The Free Encyclopedia

Dictionary.com is an example of a free online dictionary (http://www.dictionary.com). Dictionary.com provides definitions based on the Random House dictionary. It also provides a thesaurus and antonym lookup. Merriam-Webster and Oxford dictionaries are also available freely online (https://www.merriam-webster.com/ and https://en.oxforddictionaries.com/).

News

As students get to middle school and high school, they often need to research news articles. Google is a good source for news. Google provides a news aggregation and search service (https://news.google.com) that captures articles from many news services; can be set for local, regional or world news; and can search for news topics of interest. You can use the Google alert service and get notifications about news topics you are interesting in following (https://google.com/alerts).

Most newspapers also have online editions. Many of these have "pay walls," which are designed to allow a few articles a month to be read but ask for payment beyond set limits. I subscribe to the online edition of The Washington Post. Discount online subscriptions are available for as little as $19 per year. USA Today's online edition is often available free as are news services like Reuters (https://washingtonpost.com, https://www.usatoday.com/, https://www.reuters.com/.)

Clip Art and Photos

Clip art and photos are useful for preparing student presentations. Many online photos have copyrights, and the owners want payment for their use. To find good photos that are free to use, I like to employ Google image search (https://images.google.com/.) Once you have searched for the photo you want to use, select the tools menu and pick the usage restriction filter for photos labeled for reuse. These photos are legal to use in your presentations. Other filters allow you to specify photo size and dominant colors or select between photos and clipart drawings.

However, be wary: in my experience, many clipart sites link to ads with malware. One clipart site I do recommend is openclipart.org (https://openclipart.org/). This site was created to provide clip art for use in open source programs. As of today, it has over 130,000 clipart images. The images are available in many different formats including Windows WMF files, Scalable Vector Graphics (SVG) files, Portable Network Graphics (PNG) files, and Portable Document Format (PDF) files.

Geography and Maps

Probably everyone knows about Google Maps (https://maps. google.com). Google Maps will create directions, locate points of Interest, and show you photos from almost anywhere in this world. Maps can also show terrain views and eye level, street views. Microsoft also offers Bing Maps with similar abilities. Google also creates Google Earth (https://www. google.com/earth). Earth provides a three-dimensional view of the planet and allows you to zoom in to areas smaller than a city block. Google has now provided atlases of the Moon (https://www.google. com/moon) and Mars (https:// www.google.com/mars). Google Sky (https://www.google.com/sky) provides an atlas for space as viewed from Earth's sky.

That is it for this month; enjoy the rest of your summer vacation.

10th Annual Putting Fore Pink Golf Tournament

Pink Golf Classic will be held on Friday, October 6, 2017. Putting Fore Pink is an annual benefit golf tournament (Putting Fore Pink—AMW Golf Classic) raising money for the AMW Education Trust Fund. The fund was founded by friends and family in honor and memory of Kim Weber. Kim was diagnosed with breast cancer early in the summer of 2006.

Kim's dream was that her children would be able to receive a quality Catholic education. The fund helps with education/tuition expenses for Kim and Kent's children Austin, Aimee, and Aspen (their daughter Ashley is a UMD graduate). Kim was active in her parish (St. Joseph's in Beltsville, MD) and the community. She was an extremely dedicated wife, mother, daughter, sister, and friend. She was also a pillar of strength in her children's lives. Kim was an energetic, fun-loving, and engaging woman who

The 10th annual Putting Fore made a difference in the lives of everyone she met. She fought this disease courageously until the very end-believing she would beat it! Sadly, Kim lost her sixteen-month battle with breast cancer on October 10,

> This year's tournament will be held on October 10 from 7 am-1pm at the Glenn Dale Golf Club, 11501 Old Prospect Hill Rd, Glenn Dale, MD 20769. For more information or to register, go to https://www.facebook. com/AMWEducationTrust/ or contact Ed Whelan, co-chair, at 301.785.2715 or ed.whelan@ comcast.net or Mike Painter, cochair, 301.404.1148 or michaelpainter@comcast.net. The cost is $125 if you register prior to the day and $130 if you register on the day. This I Know: Gardens Are Healing Places

By Carol Clatterbuck, BS, MA Art instructor, Montgomery County/Artist Manager, Wheatley Garden

After telling her staff at work that she'd just been diagnosed with breast cancer, my supervisor said she was going to our community garden. "I don't need to tend anything specifically, I just want to be there now."

I began a community garden. Some of our gardeners have health issues they are silently dealing with. Yet, it is difficult to guess who is struggling with or recovering from an illness, surgery, treatment, rehab, disease, or disability. They are young, middle-aged, older, and are strong and positive and have a belief system that rarely waivers. I know gardens are healing places.

The Center for Disease Control (CDC) cites that about ½ of all Americans are affected by one or more health conditions and 1 in 5 suffer from autoimmune diseases. Estimates indicate 75% are women, and the risk of depression is higher in those plagued by chronic ing ways, and it is exciting to be part of the community garden network in our metro area.

- Gardens serve as a place for reflection. It has been said that planting a seed is the ultimate act of faith in the future.
- Gardens can provide plants that have medicinal uses: drinking a cup of peppermint tea for energy, using lemon balm to aid digestion, or smelling lavender to encourage sleep. It's easy to forget that our allopathic medicine originated in plant-based therapies.
- Gardens can help those who are lonely to feel connected and have fun with and learn from others while offering their own gifts.
- Community gardens can help restore the soil, and many municipalities are creating gardens that also add a little extra green space and help grow the health and welfare of our cities.

Because of my own chronic illness, I did the financially and physically unthinkable in creating a garden last year. The calling was so strong I could not ignore it, and my own "Health Warriors" church group is 100% with me. I offer a place to garden for any reason. Gardens are spaces to believe in healing, to experiment with success and failure, to grow organic food, to strengthen the body, to have fun, to learn things, to connect with people, and to provide motivation for good health.

I know gardens are healing places. And, our gardener in Plot 9? Well, she is a tremendously strong and compassionate woman to begin with, and yes, there is doubt, anxiety, and a new way of monitoring daily life. But, after going through treatment, she will have an increased knowledge of how to care for herself and a growing sense of hope, peace, strength, determination, and love for life she never knew existed. She is now waiting to harvest her vegetables and is simultaneously planning her fall and spring "jazz" garden plot to help with her nutritional goals. I know this garden is a healing place.

Thank you, Principal Robin Wiltison!

Delegates Barbara Frush, Joseline Peña-Melnyk, Ben Barnes, and I are grateful for Robin Wiltison's exceptional leadership and strong commitment to academic excellence at Martin Luther King (MLK), Jr., Middle School, which spanned 35 years. We'll miss her, and we offer our best wishes for a wonderful retirement.

MLK Middle School's new principal, Rotunda Floyd-Cooper

Rotunda Flovd-Cooper was hired as MLK Middle School's new principal earlier this summer. She began her career over 20 years ago as a high school math teacher with the Miami-Dade County Public Schools. She has since worked as a middle school assistant principal and as executive director of curriculum in Anne Arundel County Public Schools. She also served as the executive director of the Maryland Mathematics, Engineering, Science Achievement (MESA) program, a statewide STEM initiative. And she joined Prince George's County Public Schools in 2014 as a systemic improvement specialist. She is married with one son, and we greatly look forward to working with her.

Back-to-School Tips to Save You Time and Money

(StatePoint) From shopping for school supplies to lunch meal prep, getting ready for the first day of school can be overwhelming.

To help relieve some of the stress, the discount experts at Dollar General are offering a few money and time-saving tips.

Start with the Supply List

When deciding what school supplies to purchase for the new school year, start with the list provided by the student's teacher. Begin attacking the list by determining what is reusable from the last school year. Some states offer tax-free incentive weekends or periods, so check before purchasing the remaining supplies, for additional back-to-school savings.

New Year, New Style

Purchasing new clothes can be an additional back-to-school expense that doesn't have to break the bank. Just like some school supplies, many clothes from the last school year can be reused. Consider donating gently used clothes to a local charity and purchasing new ones, by shopping out-of-season to take full advantage of clearance sales.

Lunch Prep Made Easy

Preparing lunch and snacks for students can be time consuming. Instead, spend more time with family by setting aside one day each week to prepare meals for the week ahead. For quick and easy lunchtime recipes, check out free online resources like Dollar General Easy Meals.

Discounts and Deals

For additional savings on back-to-school items and clothes, discover if your favorite stores offer digital coupons and in-store discounts. For example, Dollar General Digital Coupons allow customers to save both in-stores and online. You can download Dollar General Digital Coupons and upload coupons through the online account or the Dollar General coupon app.

Back-to-school shopping doesn't have to be overwhelming. With a few easy strategies, families are sure to have a smooth transition at the start of the new school year.

AT BREAK OF DAY

I have a choice at break of day
To live for You or seek my way;
Please, open up my heart to see
Your never-ending love t'ward me.

'Tis when I focus on Your care, The fervency which had you bear

My sin upon a cross of shame, So I could wear Your Holy Name, Sealed on my forehead and my breast, True purity and holiness, Then, I begin to realize Life's preciousness before Your eyes.

Oh, thank You, my Beloved Lord, For sending Your two-edged sword,

By virtue of Your written word, To help me do the things I've heard,

Not out of obligation's rule, Which is an ever-hardn'ing tool, But, out of awe and wonderment Responding, joyfully content, Aware I rest within Your hand, Made perfect to complete the plan,

Prepared by grace before my birth

To glorify You on this earth.

The Beltsville Garden Club

The Beltsville Garden Club will meet on Wednesday, September 27, 2017, at 7:30 pm in the multi-purpose room of the Duckworth School, 11201 Evans Trail, Beltsville, MD.

Please join us for a program titled "Welcoming Bees to Your Backyard and Garden." Alison Gillespie will talk about how all over North America bees are faltering from myriad problems. Interestingly, news about their struggles has caused the emergence of a new kind of beekeeper, one who is often young and female and seeking to provide honey bees a safe home in the city.

Author and wildlife gardener Alison Gillespie spent a year following urban beekeepers in the core cities of the Mid-Atlantic and then wrote about the experience in her book Hives in the City: Keeping Honey Bees Alive in an Urban World. In many surprising "unnatural" locations, the bees form an important link for people to the natural world, and those who tend to city hives are often as interesting as the bees themselves. During her talk, Alison will discuss both the ways of beekeepers and the habitats of wild bees. She'll also talk about some of the many ways gardeners can help the bees, no matter if their gardens are big or small, urban or rural. For more info, visit the book's website at: www.hivesinthecity.com.

Alison Gillespie is an author and writer on environmental topics and has written for the Smithsonian, Modern Farmer, and the Chesapeake Bay Journal. Alison gardens and lives in Silver Spring, where she can watch bees land on flower tops in the summer and birds find berries in the winter.

The public is welcome, and admission is free. You are encouraged to bring something to exchange: a plant, cutting, garden tool, or magazine: bring something, take something! Refreshments will be served after the talk.

College Park Unit #217 Looks Forward to a Great Year

By Ivy Christoffers

What a great sight to see a few new members attending our first regular meeting in August! With the assistance of our new officers, along with the other members of unit #217, we will have a very successful year of service for our veterans, our youth, and our community.

Coming up in September is the summer carnival at Charlotte Hall Veteran's Home. Our theme this year is "a circus," which will provide a lot of fun. It will be great to see how the participating units decorate their tables and how those manning the tables will be dressed. Plans are under way for several members of College Park Unit #217 to do our best to entertain these veterans who sacrificed so much for us. The next week, we travel to the Washington VA Medical Center to hold a bingo party for the residents of the Community Living Center. We award canteen books for each bingo achieved and refreshments afterwards. The veterans look forward to our coming, and we enjoy being with them.

Finally, the last Friday night in September we will be holding a spaghetti dinner to help raise funds for our veterans' programs. Dinner will be served from 5–7 pm. Come and enjoy some great cooking. After the dinner, there will be dancing to a lively band. It is sure to be an evening of great fun and fellowship.

Coming up on October 7 is a great "Elvis Aloha Special" featuring Ronnie Dove with Mansour Spears as Elvis. Joining these two fantastic entertainers will be Camron Robertson. Wow! Three for the price of one. The tickets can be ordered through Tina at 301.935.5308, or stop in at the post home at 9218 Baltimore Blvd. and pick up yours. The cost is only $35.00 each, and this includes a terrific luau dinner. Dress accordingly, if you so desire. The night holds many surprises and fun for everyone.

With the beginning of the new school year, we are having our school supplies drive to accumulate much-needed supplies that are not available to many students. It is a sad affair that teachers must purchase these items for their students whose families cannot afford them. WHAT IS WRONG

WITH THIS PICTURE? If you feel moved to donate NEW school supplies to this effort, there is a collection box located inside the post home at 9218 Baltimore Blvd. Thank you, in advance. We open at noon every day.

Bingo is still enjoyed by many loyal players on Tuesday and Wednesday at noon at our post home. Big payouts really bring in the players. What a wonderful way to take a few hours out of our busy lives and relax with like-minded folk. There are big winners at every bingo: a win-win situation.

If you are planning a special function in the near future, give us a chance to serve you, your family, and your friends. Everyone likes to be treated as royalty, and that is our mission here at College Park Post #217. We have a great chef who will work with you if you so desire. Call Gary Kingery at 301.441.2783 to discuss your plans.

Keep our country and its safety in your prayers. As our troops serve in the cause of freedom throughout the word, let us pray God continues to protect them from harm. May God bless America and all our ships at sea.

The Beltsville Young at Heart Club

Iris Gorman, an outstanding volunteer and our chief coffee-maker in the club, was absent at the last meeting. Everyone said, "Oh we must have coffee," so our secretary, Richard Moore, volunteered to make the members happy by brewing the coffee, and he did a great job.

We are losing our refreshment cake caller, Mary Dove, to ill health. She had to go to her daughter's home. We will miss you,

The plans for the Thanksgiving feast were discussed and have not been settled yet; more discussion is needed. A pat on the back can make the chin come up and shoulders go back.

What's New at St. Joseph's Regional Catholic School?

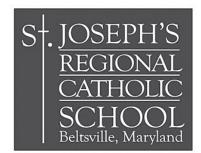

St. Joseph's 2017–18 school year introduces many new faces and changes starting at the top! On July 1, 2017, we warmly welcomed our new principal (and school parent!), Dr. Janine Bertolotti! "Dr. B" has chosen this school year's theme building the foundation for thinkers and believers.

Faith and Service

Our students will experience a comprehensive curriculum that will develop their mind, heart, and spirit through an integration of faith in every subject. Our nationally recognized, studentdriven service program will provide ample opportunities for all students to practice their faith through acts of service. Students will attend weekly Mass in which they will participate as both altar servers and lectors.

Communication

Many strides have been made towards fostering and streamlining greater communication with our families. Our new school website (www.stjosrcs.org) will feature frequent updates, and parents will have the option to subscribe to our new text reminder parent notification system. Also, our Student Handbook and Monday Communication are being sent electronically to all families.

Curriculum

Starting this fall, our middle school students will be participating in the Chromebooks program-all incoming 6-grade students will purchase a Chromebook, which is theirs to keep after graduation! Also, the Archdiocese of Washington's recently adopted new math and science standards that will be incorporated into each homeroom's curriculum from grades K-8. All students from pre-K-8 will have the option to suffix challenge to help increase their age-appropriate vocabulary.

Morning Routine

To help students transition more effectively at the start of the school day, the school office will be playing Gregorian chants and classical music each morning as students enter the building. Ideally, the soft music will not only reduce student anxiety and stress but also improve attention and focus.

Enrollment

Our enrollment continues to climb steadily as evidenced by our full pre-K and kindergarten classes. Our class size averages 22 students, and we strive to maintain our low student-to-teacher ratio.

First Day of School

We are looking forward to welcoming back our students on Tuesday, August 29! The noon dismissal school day will feature our first day assembly in the multipurpose room. We also have three back-toschool nights planned all starting at 7 pm:

- participate in a monthly prefix and Thursday, August 24, 2017: New Parent Orientation/Pre-K and K parents
 - Thursday, August 31, 2017: Middle School Parents
 - Thursday, September 7, 2017: Grades 1-5 Parents

Upcoming Events

Mark your calendars now for our St. Joseph's 13th annual Community Crab Feast on Saturday, September 23, 2017, from 6:30-9:30 pm. Ticket sales will be capped at 300, so order yours today-please visit the school website (www.stjosrcs.org) for details. Questions? Local Students Attempt to Discourage Destructive Behavior Among Their Peers

Students in Eleanor Roosevelt High School's (ERHS) SADD chapter (Students Against Destructive Decisions) made valiant efforts to encourage and inform their peers during the 2016-2017 school year.

SADD students kicked off the school year by representing their organization in the homecoming parade on October 22.

Throughout the remainder of October and November, they continued to promote SADD and its causes to fellow students for Teen Driver Safety Week, Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and the Great American Smokeout Dayan occasion on which cigarette smoking was discouraged.

On April 5, SADD held 2 special events to help raise awareness about the dangers of driving under the influence. The first was the annual Mock Car Crash, in which a totaled car was put on display for students as an example of the risk drunk driving poses to this generation. The second was the Pre-Prom MADD Assembly, an event where special speakers warned students about potential post-prom dangers.

The following day—April 6 this day, various SADD members volunteered to read stories of victims of drunk driving crashes to their classmates.

For the Prom Promise affair, all of Roosevelt's seniors gathered in the gymnasium to sign pledges to be safe on prom night. Victoria Brown, a passionate MADD activist, also delivered a moving speech about her and her family's tragic experience with drunk driving on

SADD closed off the year with a celebration for National Mental Health Awareness Month on May 18. Brochures, books, and handwritten, uplifting messages were displayed for students to learn about mental health, and several students painted their pinkies with green nail polish to signify their solidarity with people with mental Overall, this past school year was a definite success for SADD and for our community. Through its emphasis on outreach and understanding, SADD has made progress toward safety and security for young people and beyond.

This coming school year, served as "Grim Ghost Day." On ERHS's SADD chapter will continue to inform and guide local youth. Keep your eyes and ears peeled for more of its activism in the near future!

If you are looking for a program for your teenager that will help them mature, create lasting and lifelong friendships, and engage in a variety of activities and service projects all while allowing them to explore their relationship with God, then this is the group you are looking for. Emmanuel United Methodist Church provides an environment in which teenagers can find a place to grow in their faith while building relationships with others.

Emmanuel's youth group will begin on September 10, 2017, for the 2017–2018 year! Everyone will begin with a potluck lunch with the church from

It's almost time for students to head back to 12:30-1:00 pm. Then, from 1:00-3:00, there will be a parent and youth member meeting.

> Youth group is open to all students in middle and high school. Students do not have to be members of Emmanuel to join. They meet on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of the month from 12:30-3:00 (12:30-1:00 is lunch, and 1:00–3:00 is meeting).

> Students involved in Emmanuel's youth group will learn what it means to be a Christian through Bible study, trips, lock-ins, hands-on ministry opportunities and mission work, games, fun, and more. All are welcome to join! Contact Youth Leader Rick Bergmann at rick.bergmann@eumcbeltsville.com with any questions!

las Dienna, a native of Drexel Hill, PA, take the helm from Capt. Ryan B. Scholl, a native from Beltsville, MD, as Truman's commanding officer in a ceremony presided by Commander, Carrier Strike Group 8, Rear Adm. Dale Horan. During the ceremony, Horan presented Scholl with the Legion of Merit for his superior performance.

"Doc (Capt. Scholl), thank you for an incredibly successful command tour," said Horan. "It's been a pleasure watching. Blade (Capt. Dieanna), welcome. You're the perfect choice for this. You've got the right mind set, the right intelligence, and you're going to have a blast—enjoy it. Congratulations and welcome aboard."

During his tenure, Scholl led Truman through a condensed shipyard maintenance period and workup cycle and an 8-month extended deployment in support of Operation Inherent Resolve (OIR). During deployment, the strike group made significant contributions to degrade ISIL as well as disaggregated to support OIR from both the Arabian Gulf and the Mediterranean Sea—marking the first time during OIR a U.S. carrier conducted airstrikes from the Mediterranean.

Following deployment, Scholl led Truman through a successful, on-time, Periodic Incremental Availability at Norfolk Naval Shipyard. As evidence of the Scholl's and his crew's sustained achievement, Truman earned the 2016 Commander, Naval Air Force Atlantic CVN Battle Efficiency award; the James "Jim Dog" Ramage Award; and the Secretary of the Navy Environmental Award among others.

"An aircraft carrier-this fantastical beast that goes to sea-is one hundred thousand tons of lifeless metal without you shipmates," said Scholl. "She does great things when we are on here, fighting the fight both in the shipyard and out at sea. Continue to give this ship its great personality, and all of the same hard work you have given her before."

As Scholl thanked the crew for their hard work and dedication, he reminded them there was still work to be done. "Right now, shipmates, you need to get ready to take this ship on workups, get her ready, and then go execute this nation's business once again and do what we need to do for our country."

Scholl, who is transferring to commander, Naval Air Force Atlantic, also expressed his excitement for the new commanding officer to build on to the Truman standard of excellence. The new commanding officer is no stranger to leading an East Coast carrier in combat operations.

Dienna previously served as the USS Dwight D. Eisenhower (CVN 69) executive officer and the USS Mesa Verde (LPD 19) commanding officer. A seasoned pilot, Dienna has accumulated more than 2,900 flight hours and 800 arrested landings. Dienna's most recent assignment was as the assistant chief of staff for air wing, training and readiness at Com-

The bookstore is open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the days that the Visitor Center is open. Copies of the recently updated Blue Goose Passport for the National Wildlife Refuge System are for sale, and free stamps for the passports are also available.

TRAM TOUR SCHEDULE CHANGES

The summer tour calendar continues through Sun., Sept. 3. There will be tours only on weekends starting Sat., Sept. 9. Tours are scheduled at 11:30 a.m., 1 p.m., and 2 p.m. Seating is on a first come, first served basis and registration is not required. The tram is an all-electric, open-air vehicle which provides a unique type of access to the wildlife and their habitats. The tours are operated by the Friends of Patuxent and are free of charge, but optional donations are gratefully accepted. Children need to be accompanied by adults. For updates and more information, call the front desk at 301.497.5772. Group reservations can be made by calling Tim Parker at 301.497.5776.

NIGHT HIKE

Fri., Sept. 8 from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Sat., Sept. 23 from 7:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Ages 5+. When the sun sets the refuge becomes alive with the calls of owls and insects. Learn how nocturnal animal adaptations allow them to thrive in the darkness.

SUNDAY BIRD WALK

Sun., Sept. 10 from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. Ages 6+. Please join us for a leisurely bird walk around Cash Lake searching for and identifying multiple species of birds. The walk is weather- dependent and begins at the Visitor Center. Water bottle and binoculars are recommended.

Baker Bill@Riderwood

Most of you do not know that I'm a certified TV producer. Yes, I took a 2-year course with Montgomery County to become one. I was planning to produce my own baking videos, but it didn't work out. The one thing I learned is advertisements on TV are full of nontruths. When you fall for a product, buy it, and receive it, you'll find it doesn't do what advertisers claimed but close. Take that ceramic pan that you see on TV that claims it is "nonstick." You may find the only way it is nonstick is to spray it with Pam.

The social worker here at Riderwood posts a saying daily. Sometimes they're very good. Here's one I like: "Sometimes you're right, and sometimes you learn."

I promised you a list you will need in the pantry for any baking, so here it is. For bread and yeast products you will need yeast. (Red Star is the best. Stay away from American brands.) You will need bread flour, salt, and shortening (frankly, lard is best for breads). You can find all of these online at http://www.kingarthurflour.com/.

For cakes and cookies, you'll need all-purpose flour, baking soda, baking powder, salt, Crisco shortening, chocolate chips, and vanilla and almond flavor if you can find any. ShopRite has most of this, but it can also be found online.

For your recipe for this month, let's make sweet rolls or cinnamon rolls. First, set aside a small dish with 3 tablespoons of sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Now, in a medium-size bowl, place a cup of warm water. Add 2 cups of flour, 3 tablespoons of sugar, and 2 tablespoons of yeast on the flour not in water. Then, add 1 teaspoon of salt and 1 heaping tablespoon shortening.

Now mix everything with a mander, Naval Air Force Atlantic.

"Harry S. Truman once said, it's amazing what you can accomplish when you don't care who gets the credit," said Dieanna. "Teams not individuals win championships, and teams win our nation's wars. The team here today—representing thousands of sailors, engineers and artisans—is simply the best, and I'm greatly honored to now be a part of that team."

The Truman is currently homeported in Naval Station Norfolk and is beginning a rigorous workup cycle to prepare to return to sea and conduct combat operations.

spoon until the dough is too tough to do so. Dump it on the table with some flour and knead the dough. At first, it will be sticky, but then after a while it will be smooth and clean. You'll see.

Cover it with the bowl and let it rest, and then knead it some more, about 100 strokes is best, but you will not do it that long if you use a Hobart mixer. Mix for 10 minutes for the best dough. Let it rest for 20 minutes or so, and you rest as well.

Now that the dough has relaxed, roll out the dough with a rolling pin in a long, 8-inch wide strip. Paint the dough with melted butter and sprinkle on the cinnamon mixture. Use your fingers to spread it. Now start in the upper left corner and start to curl in a roll, not too tight. Seal the bottom of the roll with your fingers.

Afterwards, rest and cut into 1-inch rolls. Place them in a greased pan and let them rise for about one hour. Put the whole pan in a plastic bag and close it. It will make its own heat, so you do not need to add heat unless you place the bag in sunshine. Do not squeeze them into the pan, but give them room to rise. You'll know.

Finally, bake in a pre-heated oven at 400 degrees for about 18 minutes or until they are nice and brown. Simple powdered sugar and water frosting is all that's needed.

Remember, you can always reach me at bill@bakerbill.net. Until next time
