StandUp Against Child Sexual Abuse

By Todd Reitzel

On June 30, the event Stand-Up Against Child Sexual Abuse was held in The Mark at Brickyard in Beltville. The event provided information to community members about how to recognize and prevent child abuse.

The event was organized by Victoria Givens, author of the book Lela: My Splintered Life. Givens shared her story as a victim of sexual abuse.

Speakers at the event included members of Bikers Against Child Abuse (BACA), Prince George’s County police officer Lieutenant Vincent Upole, and Givens. The event was emceed by Givens brother Douglas Ward, and family member Moe-sha provided rap entertainment.

BACA (www.bacaworld.org) was founded in 1995 in Utah to help abused children by providing safety and support to those that have been sexually, physically, and emotionally abused. There are 3 BACA chapters in Maryland. BACA members identify themselves by their road names.

Schütz has been in the Pata-pscot Valley BACA chapter for two years. “Our goal is to bring the child to the point where they don’t need us anymore,” he said. “We give that child the ability to stand up, dust themselves off, and tell their story.”

Givens emphasized the scope of the problem by using statistics from the American Society for the Positive Care of Children (www.americanspcc.org). According to Child Maltreatment 2014, published by the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services, over 58,000 children were reported to have been sexually abused in 2014.

“I hope that this event will touch people to let them know the signs of abuse so that they can know when something’s wrong,” said Givens. She also expressed hope that she can assemble a set of resources that interested persons may use going forward.

New Trail Project in Beltville

Motorists who drive past the entrance to the Beltville Community Center on Sellman Road, as well as motorists who drive on Cherry Hill Road near the bridge before Home Depot, will later this year, experience some permanent changes to those areas.

In recent weeks, construction work has appeared in the areas listed above, and in the month of June into July, concrete slabs have been placed to the top of Sellman Road from the traffic lights down to the roundabout to go into Sellman Estates.

If you drive on these roads, you will definitely want to give yourself some extra drive time, as construction will soon get to that location.

Jason Yeo is the Senior Superintendant Team Leader from Rockville-based BHW Construction, and he was kind enough to give Beltville News a summary of the project. Yeo said, “We are building a trail, not a sidewalk,” in response to a question from Beltville News. He revealed that the project is very strategic because it links the trail in Beltville, by the community Center, to the trail in College Park which picks up opposite Home Depot and the trail ultimately ends up in DC.

Bicycle enthusiasts can look forward to enjoying this 2-mile stretch of the project and possibly share with other readers, their experience cycling from Beltville to Washington DC.

The official completion date of the project is early 2019. More detailed interview with Jason Yeo will feature next month and readers will be provided with updates, up to the time the project is completed.

Cub Pack 1031 Finding Their Way on the Trail

Pack 1031 has been on the trail this month learning the basics of map reading and using a compass along the Azalea Trail at Greenbelt National Park and launching stomp rockets in early July. Next week, we will be riding bikes along Little Paint Branch Trail and going over bicycle safety and courtesy.

In August, we will be attending National Night Out, doing a creek walk, and taking a few minutes to clean up trash along the trail. We want to remind everyone to place their trash in proper trash cans at the end of the trails. A PETE plastic bottle lasts so long in the environment that researchers don’t even know how long they can last.

If your child is looking for fun in the outdoors over the summer, we are meeting most Mondays for a low, summertime fee. We will be hiking and biking on local trails, fishing, playing games, and having lots of fun. We are reaching out to families with both boys and girls, grade 1 – 5, who want to do family scouting.

Lions (rising kindergarteners) can join at the beginning of the school year in September. All year, the pack has activities including camping, hiking, our annual Pine-wood Derby, and campfires. We also do participatory citizenship along Little Paint Branch Trail, our toy drive, and Scouting for Food. Along the way, we learn responsibility, play games, and have tons of fun.

If you are interested in discovering the fun of Cub Scouts with your child, please contact Regina Halper at Pack1031CubScouting@gmail.com for more information.

A Seagull on the Chesapeake Bay

“The sky had darkened ready to release some of its heavy clouds’ fullness.”

They called it MOEWE far away at the Baltic Sea.”

And she turned her sunburned shoulder into the wind.

The ship was easing its way through those sharp little waves.

Emmanuel UMC Food Ministry Celebrates Seventh Anniversary

By Todd Reitzel

On June 23, Emmanuel Unit- ed Methodist Church’s (EUMC) Food Ministry celebrated its 7th anniversary with a community cookout. Attendees were treated to hot dogs, burgers, sausages, jambalaya, and beverages. The jambalaya was provided by caterer Mardi Gras Frame of Laurel.

The ministry provides boxed groceries to members of the community on the 4th Saturday of every month. At the June event, groceries were distributed to 137 persons. The ministry also provided special hygiene kits.

The EUMC Food Ministry is supported by several local businesses, Emmanuel UMC, and grants from ShopRite and Food Lion. Each month, volunteers from the church and the community prepare groceries and staff the distributions. Leaders of the ministry include Mary Ann Vaughan, Charles and Shirley Nelson, and Gwen Council.

“The goal of our food distribution is to feed those in our community that suffer from food instability,” said Vaughan. “Christ has called us to feed and clothe our neighbors. It gives me a great feeling of satisfaction helping our community.”

The ministry’s next food distribution event will be Saturday, August 25, from 10 am to 12 noon. In addition to groceries, the event will include the distribution of school supplies.

For questions about the ministry’s distribution events or about how to volunteer or support the ministry, please contact the church office at 301.937.7114 or office@eumcbeltsville.com.

Farmers’ Market in Beltsville Every Thursday

The farmers’ market in Beltsville keeps getting better and better. Open on Thursdays from 9:30 am–2:00 pm, the farmers’ market is in the parking lot at the U.S. Department of Agriculture facility called the George Washington Carver Center, located at 5601 Sunnyside Ave., Beltsville, MD.

In June and July, the market featured some food trucks and juicy plump peaches, berries, string beans, carrots, squash, corn, tomatoes, and other fresh, locally grown fruits and vegetables. In August, vendors are expected to sell even more produce, plus baked goods, crab cakes, key lime pie, small-batch sorbets and ice creams, and other goodies you can eat on the premises at a shady table or take home to your family. You might also consider taking home some homemade soaps, lotions, and crafts to go with your edible goodies.

This year’s market aims to be the best since the market first opened in 1998. The number of vendors is growing and will continue to grow as the summer goes on.

When you arrive at the USDA facility on Sunnyside Avenue, drive into the parking lot and look for the tents directly in front of the USDA building—that’s where the farmers’ market will be! It is open to the public, so you can ignore the signs about not being allowed to park at the facility. Park as close to the tents as you can.

Many of the vendors show up each week, so you can get to know them and find out what to expect the following week as they let you know what’s ripening in their fields. They take pride in their fields and generally enjoy talking with folks about their farm operations, fields, and procedures.

You never know what pleasant aromas to expect at this market. Vendors operating food trucks have been selling warm foods including gourmet hot dogs and freshly grilled meats or fish.

Come with an appetite, and bring a friend to share the experience!

Summer-time Blues

The summer of 2018 will best be remembered for the sweltering heat. In the design world though, well-known local designers, Michael Richards and Valerie Kabelac of Will’s Home Decorating in Beltsville, are exuberantly celebrating the sudden industry-wide rejuvenation of cool shades of blues, injected into the newest selections of wallpaper and fabric patterns. According to Michael, “exciting shades of blues have been ever-present in Benjamin Moore’s fabulous paint palette, but you could not find any coordinating blues in bedding, wall coverings or drapery fabrics over the last two years, until recently. As a result, my clients were unable to update their rooms if they were using blue tones.”
Hi folks! How has your month been? It has been a very challenging month for me with the heat. I work outdoors full-time in Baltimore, and by the time I get home to Beltsville, I am only in the mood to sleep, eat, wake up, bathe, eat, sleep...in any order that makes sense at the time.

There are so many things to talk about, but I am going to have to show temperance and be patient with myself. Let me go straight into something that I would like to see taken up by the relevant authorities. We have no control over the upgrades and maintenance required on facilities in our lovely Beltsville. A lot of money is spent on roads, and a lot of us have to spend significant amounts of money on the maintenance of our cars. My issue is this...for the respective contractors that have to dig up roads for whatever reason, it would be nice if, at the end of their work, rather than patch up the areas that have been dug, they take their time to smoothen out the layer of asphalt that has been used to refill the dugout area. The benefit of this is that we have a smoother ride on the roads. In addition, the shock absorbers in our cars would last longer.

Let me move on to something else. For close to three years, I have been involved in providing rideshare services for one of the companies in the business. Believe me: it has been a fun experience. So occasionally I will share some of the hilarious experiences with you. Believe me when I say I can write a book on the things I have witnessed. Earlier this year, I picked up a couple in Washington, DC, Northwest. The destination they entered for the trip was Washington Dulles Airport, which a lot of us call “Dulles” or “IAD.” We went on the 33-mile trip to the airport, and as we approached, I asked the couple which airline they would be flying out on. The gentleman gave me a response and then said everything looked strange. I told him that if he had arrived at night, he may not have noticed the infrastructure around him. He says it looks different from the Ronald Reagan Airport they flew into. I pulled up to the curb to drop them off. Meanwhile, he pulled out his tickets to backcheck his ticket for departure details and then is when he realized that he had entered the wrong airport name. He had put Washington Dulles instead of Ronald Reagan Airport. Needless to say, I had quite a drive back to Washington, trying to get them to Ronald Reagan Airport with about 45 minutes to check in and catch their domestic flight that was headed to the mid-Western part of the country.

Well, my dear reader, I apologize: this is all I have for you in this issue. It has been a very busy month for me, taking care of domestic issues. Next issue,...

Multi-factor Authentication

I know you have seen in movies where the action character needs to break into a high-security building, and he must determine a way to capture the handprint or retinal scan of a person authorized to enter and play those back for the scanner to unlock the vault. This month, we will discuss practical, multi-factor authentication techniques that are available to the typical technology user.

Multi-factor or two-factor authentication schemes typically require you to provide your username and password as the first two pieces of information used to prove your identity. An additional factor is sometimes required if more security is needed like for accessing a bank account. This additional factor is typically based on something about you, like a fingerprint, or facial image, or on something you own like your telephone.

You may want this added security feature to protect your accounts. Sites like Twitter, Google, and Facebook all have support for one or more advanced authentication schemes to protect your accounts.

Verification Codes

The most popular scheme today is to have a number sent to your cell phone via text message as you are logging in. You must then enter the four to six digits of the number into a field on the login screen, proving that you are in possession of the cell phone registered with the site. This is better than not having any third factor, but since the technology for sending text messages is not secure, it is possible for someone to capture the number before you get it. In Europe, people have lost thousands of dollars to criminals that intercepted numbers to their banking accounts.

One-Time Passwords (OTP)

One-time passwords, or OTP, are a secure solution to this problem. First, you need to install an app on your phone or tablet that generates a new 6-digit number about every thirty seconds. This app synchronizes with the system you want to access so they both generate the same number at the same time. You enter the number generated in the app on your phone into the login screen after you have provided your username and password.

Most OTP systems provide a means for secure backup of the key that generates the numbers or a short list of emergency numbers that should be printed and saved securely in case your phone is lost, stolen, or broken. OTP is very safe and very reliable. Two apps to consider are Google Authenticator and Authy. Authy can provide secure backup of the keys and optionally works in place of Google Authenticator.

FIDO U2F Keys

The Fast Identity Online (FIDO) Alliance has created a standard for a simple hardware factor called the Universal 2nd Factor, or U2F. This device plugs into the USB port of your computer. When prompted, you simply press... the button on the device (it only has one button), and information is exchanged with the service proving the identity of the device. There may be no practical means of recovery if the device is lost or stolen. This is why many services support adding more than one device so a backup device can be supported. Purchase U2F keys on Amazon or directly from manufacturers like Yubico, manufacturer of the popular YubiKey. The web browser and the application both must support the U2F. Currently, support for the keys is limited to Chrome, with Firefox and Windows 10 expected shortly.

Bingo Cards

A bingo card is also something you have, but rather than being a high tech device, it is simply a folded sheet of paper with rows and columns of numbers and letters. A bingo card is printed and then folded in a manner to allow easy access to pages. On each page is a grid of two-digit numbers (or letters) with the rows and columns numbered. The login will provide a random page number, row, and column, and you must respond with the two-digit number found at that the location. This usually repeats three times to provide six digits for authentication. Once used, cross out the used numbers in the booklet. When about half the numbers have been used, the user is prompted to print a new booklet. If the bingo card is lost, a new one can be printed invalidating the old card.

Fingerprints

Fingerprint readers have become available on many modern cell phones and laptop computers. To use a fingerprint reader, the device is trained to recognize one or more fingers. The phone or device then remains locked until a fingerprint is matched. These systems can be thwarted using easily made fake fingerprints (as seen on TV and in the movies). Some systems are set up to use fingerprints as a second factor requiring the fingerprint after giving the login credentials.

Facial Recognition

Apple, Windows, and Android all have some support for using facial recognition to unlock a device or access an account. Facial recognition uses the camera built into the phone to take a photo, analyzing the image to unlock the device if the face is recognized. On many systems, a photo of the person’s face can thwart the system. Apple has tried to make this harder with multiple cameras and specialized hardware. Unfortunately, it only required a little more effort to overcome Apple’s system.

Wrap Up

If available, you really should use some additional factor beyond username and password to access your most important accounts to keep the accounts as safe as possible.

Save for a rainy year.

Donnellan, Denis Francis Xavier, DDS (Age 90)
Denis Francis Xavier Donnellan passed away peacefully on Wednesday, June 20, in Beltsville, MD, at his home. Denis was an extremely kind and humble man and a gentle soul. He was a devoted and caring husband to his wife, Beatrice, for 58 years, who preceded him in 2014 after living with dementia for 17 years. He was an exceptional and loving father to his daughter, Joann Donnellan.

Denis was born in Washington, DC, on February 23, 1928. He grew up in the Brookland area, attended St. Anthony’s grade school, played baseball at Turkey Thicket, and was a paperboy for The Washington Star-New-News. He then attended The Washington Post. He graduated from Gonzaga College High School in 1945 and received his undergraduate and Doctor of Dental Surgery (DDS) degree from Georgetown University in just five years. Denis served in the US Army as a captain in the Dental Corps from 1950 to 1955. His service included action on the front lines of the Korean War. He returned to the Washington area and built a successful dental practice in Hyattsville, MD, that thrived for more than 35 years.

His patients remained fiercely loyal to Denis for decades, and one of his greatest joys was providing dental care for two and three generations of families. Moreover, he was well known for giving all his younger patients a prescription for a free ice cream cone at Peoples Drug Store after each appointment. He also gave back to the community by volunteering his time to provide dental care to the residents of Sacred Heart Home long-term care facility. Denis loved to golf, took pride in having multiple holes-in-one, and enjoyed playing with his buddies in Myrtle Beach. He even made custom golf clubs for family and friends. Denis had a passion for gardening and grew over 400 azalea plants at his home, which he designed and had built in 1964. Through the years he enjoyed traveling, especially taking cruises with his family. A trip to Ireland to find his father’s birthplace in County Roscommon was particularly meaningful.

Up until his passing, he was still reading two newspapers a day, taking walks in his neighborhood park, cracking crabs, putting golf balls, dog sitting, buying sweet corn from Spicknall’s Farm, enjoying glazed donuts from冉 gehören’s Bakery, and spending quality time with his family and friends.

He is predeceased by his parents Mary Agnes (Mulhall) Donnellan and John Joseph Donnellan, who emigrated from Ireland, graduated from Georgetown Law School, was a lawyer for the US Department of Veterans Affairs and the US Department of Justice, and helped craft the Social Security Act of 1935. Denis had four siblings who passed before him: Mary Catherine McKenna, Sr. Catherine de Ricci, O.P., Patricia Donnellan, and Joseph Donnellan.

Denis will be greatly missed and lovingly remembered by his daughter, Joann Donnellan, and his sister-in-law Evelyn, brother-in-law George Stever, and numerous nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends.

A Year of Accomplishments for College Park Unit #217

By Ivy Christoffler

On June 30, the annual installation of the officers of the 2018-2019 year for service of the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary of College Park took place. The unit officers were installed by the incoming State President Linda Sarkisian. There were many people recognized by both the post and unit for their dedication and commitment to our programs. One special award was given to Beatrice Bowman, the manager of Calverton Giant, for her generosity and support of our veterans over the three years she has been in Calverton. The Community Service Award has been presented to only three members of the business community by Unit #217. The recipients of this prestigious award are Tim and Karen Murray of TJ’s Restaurant in Calverton, 2008, Larry Pendelton of Old Line Fine Wine, Spirits & Bistro Restaurant in 2017, and now Beatrice Bowman. We are on the lookout for our next recipient.

Soon after the installation, we were in route to Ocean City for a week to attend our state convention. We arrived on Saturday, July 7, and began our socializing. On Sunday, July 8, and began our socializing. On Tuesday morning, we held our last department executive committee (DEC) meeting at 9:30 am, and several meetings were held after this DEC meeting. That afternoon, the Past Department President’s Luncheon was held at Harpoon Hannah’s, and at 7 pm the joint opening took place. At 8 am on Wednesday, the opening session began where nominations and elections were held for 2018-2019 department officers and for the delegates to the national convention being held in Minneapolis in August. A beautiful memorial service was held by Chaplain Jane Nolan for Past Department President Marie Walbert, who went to heaven her home earlier in the year. On Wednesday evening the auxiliary officers dinner was held at the Dunes Restaurant, after which we all attended the joint memorial service at the convention center. At this memorial service, I was introduced to a delightful junior member (nine years old) named Ivy. Imagine, another Ivy? She thoroughly amazed me.

On Thursday, among other business conducted, we were presented certificates and awards recognizing the units for their year of service. College Park Unit #217 received the following: two first-place certificates for Americanism essays (group II and group IV), third place for chaplain, second place for community service, third place for education, third place for legislative, second place for poppy, 2 second-place certificates received for public relations, and 2 first-place awards for veterans affairs and rehabilitation. This was a very good showing for our small group of volunteers who have dedicated themselves to our mission of service to our veterans and active military, our youth, and our community.

On Thursday afternoon we had our Past President’s Parley Luncheon at the Dough Roller Restaurant, where we past department presidents entertained the past unit presidents. We had a drawing for cash and prizes, and two Unit #217 members were big winners. How lucky can you get? Friday morning we saw the installation of the new officers. After the close of the 97th annual convention, we held our first department executive committee meeting to ratify the new president’s appointments, after which we said our goodbyes and headed homeeward.

On Sunday, July 15, a joint reception was held at Post #40 in Glen Burnie for the Commander of the American Legion Dave Johnson, the Detachment Commander of the Sons of the American Legion Jim Alexander, and the Department President Linda Sarkisian. We wish them all a very productive year.

College Park is your Legion of choice for your special events. Call or come by and let’s get acquainted. If you like to play bingo, this is where you want to be. If you like to dance, come by on Friday nights and get your groove on.

As we begin our new year of service, let us continue to seek God’s blessings on our great America and His protection for our troops serving in the cause of peace throughout the world.

It has been operating since May of 2011 and provides free food, clothing, and other supplies when available. Distributions are held the fourth Saturday of each month.
