Cub Pack 1031 Summertime Adventures

Cub Pack 1031 has been having great adventures outside this summer. Six scouts and their families attended the Baysox Scout Night on June 19. We paraded around the field and watched the game and fireworks. Two families even camped out on the outfield! Four of the pack’s scouts went to the Prince George’s District Cub Day Camp in Mitchellville in late June where they shot BB guns and arrows, learned about science and scout skills and made crafts.

On July 6, we had great fun launching paper rockets into the air with “stomp rockets,” which are basically PVC pipes and a soda bottle that you stomp on to launch the rocket into the air. Webelos Alex M. managed to bring it, or a table can be provided. If you have your own table, you may rent space for $20. If you are interested in renting space, contact us at bvnewseditor@gmail.com.

Bryant Davis – Excellence in Teaching Recipient

Bryant Davis has been teaching at Montgomery College in Germantown, MD, since 1992. “Either I like it very much, or I am not good at finding a new job,” Bryant stated jokingly. Before he blessed Montgomery College with his presence, he taught at Durham Technical Community College and North Carolina State University. Mr. Davis is a wonderful teacher with a lot of skills, but teaching wasn’t the only profession he thought about pursuing. “I first thought about being a teacher in 3rd grade. For a long time, I also considered being a veterinarian, a boxer until I found out what they really did, a counselor, and Spider-Man. I still think about being Spider-Man,” stated Davis.

When he is not teaching English at Montgomery College, he is teaching ESOL at Emmanuel United Methodist Church in Beltsville, MD. He has been teaching there since 2007. “I enjoy my work at both places: being a teacher in 3rd grade. For a long time, I also considered being a veterinarian, a boxer until I found out what they really did, a counselor, and Spider-Man. I still think about being Spider-Man,” stated Davis.

Bryant Davis “wrote a speech about my dad and then took a selfie.”

Digitizing the Beltsville News

The Beltsville News has been a vital part of the Beltsville Community for 62 years. It began way back before we entered the “digital age.” Currently, you can find copies of the paper going back to 2009 on our Facebook page and to 2004 at http://beltsvillebusinessdirectory.com/beltsville-news-archives/. But these are only a fraction of our paper’s illustrious 62-year history. While we own hard copies of the paper going back to 1953, we are looking for some help in getting them digitized for all to see. If you can help with this project or know someone who can, please contact us at bvnewseditor@gmail.com.

Beltsville Heights Neighborhood Watch Update

By Angela Surratt

On Wed., July 1, 2015, PG county police officers, Beltsville station, and several Beltsville Heights neighbors participated in our 2nd Neighborhood Watch Walk around our neighborhood. It was a great “walk” and people had fun. I want to encourage our neighbors to watch out for each other and help others in need. Please look out for kids walking and/or riding their bicycles and people walking their dogs through the neighborhood. When mowing your lawn and clearing your yard, please don’t blow grass, leaves and trash debris into your neighbor’s property; be kind and respectful. There are still a lot of people in automobiles exceeding the speed limit on the streets and failing to obey traffic stop signs. More police presence is still needed in our neighborhood, and we appreciate it when they are here. Please dial ‘911’ to report any suspicious activity in our neighborhood.

Designers Michael Richards and Valerie Kabelac of Will’s Home Decorating have noticed a strong uptick of clients requesting vibrant fabrics with dogs and cats. What is so unusual is that the fabrics and wall coverings are no longer limited to safari type animals such as elephants, giraffes and lions. According to Michael, “Manufacturers have only recently responded to the change in tastes by introducing new updated animal designs along with recoloring many of the traditional animal patterns.” Having so many animated dog prints to choose from made Valerie’s job especially fun when she was recently asked to design a dog bed for a 70 pound golden lab named Max. Not only does the bed coordinate nicely with the room décor, but it has been strategically placed in view of the television so that Max will have a great vantage point so he can watch DOGtv, which is the first-ever TV network devoted to “stay-at-home” bower.

Obituaries

John Charles Bouma

Bouma, John C

John Charles Bouma, long-time resident of Beltsville, died June 8, 2015. He lived 87 years, 73 of them with diabetes.

His childhood years were spent in Gambrills, where his father worked at the Naval Academy dairy. He had two younger sisters, Emma and Gertrude. The family moved to Beltsville in 1942 when his father got a job at USDA in the cattle “maternity barn.”

John graduated from Laurel High School in 1944 and then earned his bachelor’s degree at the University of Maryland, paying for tuition by working nights as a switchboard operator at USDA. He earned a Master’s in Agriculture Marketing in 1949, working on a project at USDA. This led to employment as a marketing specialist with ARS, first in Washington D.C., and later in Hyattsville and Beltsville. He met Cecelia Buckner at USDA Beltsville and they married in 1954.

John received a Dept. of Agriculture Meritorious Service Award in 1964, and later contributed to development of the UPC scanners that are now used in stores worldwide.

John was diagnosed with diabetes at age 14, and it changed his (and his family’s) life. At that time, insulin (purified from ox pancreas) had been available for only 20 years and was very expensive; the typical life expectancy for a diabetic, at that time, was just 30 years. Today’s recombinant human insulin, disposable syringes and home blood glucose monitors were unheard of. Few people of John’s generation have been long-term survivors with diabetes; he was honored to receive a “50-year Survivor” medal from Harvard University’s Joslin Diabetes Center. In 2008, he was invited by the Joslin Center to participate in its ongoing research project with long-term diabetes survivors. He enjoyed the free trip to Boston and the opportunity to visit with fellow diabetics. He nearly reached the 75-year mark!

John and Cecelia greatly enjoyed traveling. They took the family on many vacations, driving across the country to visit relatives in Colorado, to various destinations in the Southwest, to Florida, and to the Northeast. Following his retirement in 1983, John and Cecelia traveled the world and revisited many of their favorite places in the US. They enjoyed Alaska, Hawaii, China, Europe and the Caribbean. After their grandchildren were born, they bought a timeshare unit in Florida and enjoyed many adventures at Disney World with them. They also visited cousins and friends while staying there. John remained active through water aerobics, riding bicycles with his granddaughters, and golfing. Despite breaking his leg in 2013, he continued with daily walking and riding his exercise bike.

Faith was an important part of John’s life. He became a member of Emmanuel United Methodist Church in 1942 and was extensively involved in various EMC committees, including service as lay leader. He was also a founding member of the local Christian Business Men’s Committee, through which he ministered at Central Union Mission for several decades.

John was preceded in death by his wife Cecelia in 2013. He is survived by his daughter, Carolyn Bouma Stoll and her husband, James, of Amarillo, TX; his son, Charles, and his wife Dandrea, of Falling Waters, WV; two granddaughters, Jenna Bouma of Crofton, MD, and Alyssa Bouma of New York, NY; and six nieces and nephews.

Memorial contributions can be made to the Joslin Diabetes Center, www.joslin.org or One Joslin Place, Boston MA, 02215, or to Emmanuel United Methodist Church, 11416 Cedar Lane, Beltsville, MD, 20705.

teaching at the college is the highlight of my day, and teaching at the church is the highlight of my week,” Davis stated. He really enjoys helping others, which is why he has chosen to be a teacher. He enjoys the attention that he brings to the students and the attention that they give to him when he is teaching. He believes the best way to help someone is to teach them. At Montgomery College, he primarily teaches writing and editing. He also directs a certificate program that specializes in technical writing, or writing for work.

Bryant Davis has received the Excellence in Teaching award. He received recommendations from students, other professors, and the department chair. He was extremely happy to receive the award. “I dedicated the award to my father, who wanted to go to college but never had the chance, but he and my mother made sure I did. When I won the award, I gave a speech I wrote about my dad and then took a selfie,” stated Davis.

With all that charisma and humor, who couldn’t enjoy Bryant Davis as their teacher? He wanted to become a counselor, boxer, and even Spider-Man, but ended up being a wonderful teacher that his family, faculty and students adore, and now is the recipient for the Excellence in Teaching award. “If I weren’t a professor, I’d probably be unemployed. Or maybe I would be Spider-Man, but then I’d have to work a lot of nights,” Davis stated jokingly. Advice that he gives anyone wanting to become a teacher in the near future is “Try it out beforehand. People go into teaching thinking they will teach students like themselves.”

Bryant Davis is a smart, intelligent and funny man, and the Excellence in Teaching award couldn’t have gone to a greater example. Congratulations, Bryant Davis.

By John Bell

It’s that time of year when I start thinking about lying on the beach or beside the pool and working on my sun tan as I read a book. Of course I don’t typically sit there with a book made from dead trees; instead I read the book on my tablet, phone or laptop computer. I believe that most people are familiar the Amazon Kindle Reader and others may also be familiar with the Barnes and Noble Nook. You may not be aware that these programs will also run on most Android and Apple tablets and phones. Additionally many eBooks are published in PDF (Portable Document Format) files that can be read applications. So let’s learn a little bit about eBooks.

An ebook is a file that contains the text content of a book and the formatting information that describes how a book should appear when read. The file is viewed through software that renders the ebook so it can be read. Some software will even read the book aloud. Sometimes this software is run on a dedicated device (like a Kindle eader for example), and other the software is made available to run on other devices. The Kindle software, for example, runs on Android tablets, cell phones and even Windows computers but is tied to the Amazon Kindle store to purchase books. Google and Apple also provide their own reader software.

There are several popular file formats for eBooks. Some of these are proprietary for specific reader devices or software but many books are published in open formats including EPUB and PDF. Most of the proprietary book reader support the open formats as well as their own formats. The proprietary formats also come with Digital Rights Management (DRM) software that prevents copying or limits how an ebook can be shared. Some of the freely distributed reader software that is not tied to a bookstore includes Adobe Acrobat Reader (for PDF files), Adobe Digital Editions, and Calibre. Adobe Editions supports checking out and downloading books from our own Beltsville library. Calibre supports converting books published in one format into other formats.

It is not uncommon for books to be tied both to the store and reader software provided by the store. This means that the decision to use an eader often ties the purchaser to a specific store associated with the eader. For example, use of Kindle ties the reader to Amazon. This is why some people have several eaders installed on their devices.

There is a very large collection of free books. Project Gutenberg (https://www.gutenberg.org/) has been working for many years to create digital copies of books that are no longer copyrighted. Its library includes all of the known and published works of Mark Twain, Edgar Allen Poe and H.G. Wells, for example. It has wonderful books like Treasure Island, Alice in Wonderland, The Wizard of Oz, Tarzan, Sherlock Holmes, 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea, Frankenstein, Dracula, and The War of the Worlds, all free. These books usually come in the EPUB or Kindle formats and often have illustrated version that can be read by many book readers. All of them are free. Have fun reading this summer.

Daughters of the American Revolution Convene in Washington, D.C.

124th Continental Congress held in DAR Constitution Hall

WASHINGTON, DC – The nation’s capital welcomed more than 3,500 members of one of its foremost service organizations this week with the arrival of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) for its 124th annual Continental Congress. Highlights of the week-long event included welcoming respected keynote speakers and award winners during the gala evening ceremonies. DAR is celebrating the 125th anniversary of its founding this year. As members celebrate 125 years of service to America, DAR continues to be an active, vibrant women’s service organization focused on promoting historic preservation, education and patriotism. During the 124th Continental Congress, there were special events to commemorate this milestone anniversary, including the Opening Night Ceremony, which highlighted the organization’s history.

On National Defense Night, an evening that honors our nation’s military personnel and veterans, the distinguished speakers were Lt. Gen. Michelle D. Johnson, superintendent of the U.S. Air Force Academy; Colonel Lee Ellis, U.S. Air Force (Ret.), distinguished veteran and a former POW; Diane Carlson Evans, president of the Vietnam Women’s Memorial Foundation; and J.R. Martinez, actor, author, motivational speaker, spokesperson and former U.S. Army soldier who served in Iraq in 2003. What “Repairing the World” Means to One Riderwood Couple

Lew & Judy Priven Lead First-Hand Support to AIDS/HIV Organization in Uganda

Silver Spring, MD — The Hebrew phrase “Tikkun Olam” translated means “repair the world.” The thought can be overwhelming, but for Lew and Judy Priven, residents of Riderwood retirement community, it provided inspiration to act.

In 2007, they joined the American Jewish World Service Volunteer Corps. Their initial three-month assignment took them nearly 7,300 miles away to Kampala, Uganda, in East Africa to work with Meeting Point Kampala Kyamuswa Obwongo (Meeting Point).

Founded in 1992, the mission of Meeting Point is “In Fight for the Dignity of the Person” by developing the human potential of children, youth, and women infected and affected by HIV/AIDS and increasing awareness, promoting behavioral changes and advancing literacy related to the causes and effects of the disease.

Upon arriving in Uganda, Lew and Judy were taken by the hospitality of the people. “Everyone was friendly, but, initially, we were unprepared for the widespread poverty and illness that we encountered,” described Lew, a retired software development executive for large companies such as IBM and GE. “On our first day, Meeting Point held an HIV/AIDS screening, which can be a death sentence to some. It quickly showed us the reality of the situation.”

Noelina “Mama” Namikisa is the executive director of Meeting Point. Working with her would prove to be a life-changing experience for Lew and Judy.

“She is the heart and soul of the organization, and her enthusiasm for the mission, despite limited resources, is tangible,” he said.

The organization does more than just raise awareness. Its staff and volunteers operate a school, provide counseling, conduct health screenings and train caregivers.

The Privens immediately went to work for “Mama.” The couple was different than typical Corps members—they had decades of workplace experience, a contrast to most of the college-age volunteers.

Judy, an educator by profession, wrote a curriculum for the school, mentored teachers, and created a grade-tracking system to monitor learning progress. The facility attracted children of all ages, many of whom were refugees from war-torn countries of Africa.

Similarly, Lew put into place simple business practices to improve efficiency at Meeting Point. For example, his computer spreadsheets tracked volunteer activity. Each month, this helped to save a week’s worth of report creation to free up time for the meaningful work of Meeting Point.

Lew and Judy Priven are pictured with students of Meeting Point in Kampala, Uganda before a boat trip there in 2007.

Leaving Uganda did not mark an end for the Privens’ involvement with Meeting Point. Instead, their new calling was just beginning. Lew communicated regularly with “Mama” via phone and email to learn about the on-going work.

In The Heat of Summer

In the heat of Summer
What can a body do?
Rejoice in air-conditioning,
Or jump into a pool.

Myrtles burst with color,
Sweet corn grows ripe and tall,
Delicious fruits and vegetables
Are feasts for one and all.

Plenty is the sunshine,
Most schools have closed their doors.
White ice-cream pipers play their tunes
Which children can’t ignore.

Beaches and vacations
O’erflow with fam’ly fun,
Reunions, outdoor barbeques,
And baseball games for some.

Fishing is a fav’rite
From land or on the sea,
Just taking time to catch a breeze
Enjoying shade and tea.

Happy are the people
Remembering their Lord,
Delighting in His seasonings
Each with its own reward.

launch his the farthest down the field for a distance of 86 feet! Whether or not the rocket went really far, all the boys had a great time.

On July 13 we hiked the Cross Creek Trail as the second of our summer trail activities. We walked underneath the Intercounty Connector, saw a rabbit, robins and grasshoppers and heard Green Frogs in the pond by The Fairland Aquatic Center/Gardens Ice House. Before we walked, the scouts learned the basics of using a compass. We also saw lots of deer prints, bugs, blackberries, and cattails and identified trees along our hike.

At the end of July, we plan to have a bike rodeo to learn proper "trail etiquette and bicycle safety" and ride our bicycles down Paint Branch Trail, Then, we will see everyone at National Night Out.

If your son is going to be in the 1st to 5th grade this coming year and you are interested in having him join Cub Pack 1031, please contact us through BeAScout, scouting.org. Select Cub Scouts, put in the zip code "20705," and select "Cub Pack 1031." We will send you information on our pack and how to join us for fun scouting adventures.

Other honorees recognized during the week-long event included Geoffrey C. Ward, historical writer; and Andrew O’Shaughnsey author of The Men Who Lost America: British Leadership, the American Revolution, and the Fate of the Empire. Members from the Colonel Tench Tilghman of Bethesda, MD, were in attendance including Dr. Kathy Mellott, Regent, attend- ed the Heritage Club Breakfast and gave blood in the Summer of Hope Blood Drive. Irene Haas was selected for the DAR Native American Scholarship Committee award.

All of these members served as delegates and attended various business meetings, luncheons and events that included the Patrio- tism Luncheon, Celebrate America, 125th Anniversary Reception. The National Society Daugh- ters of the American Revolution was founded in 1890 to promote historic preservation, education and patriotism. The first day of school for 9th grade students will be Mon., Aug. 24. Then Tue., Aug. 25 will be the first day of school for all students. Please review uniform information, prayer calendar, and school information at the school’s website: http://www1.pcps.gq/highpoint.

High Point will be receiving some unique and exciting programs for this upcoming academic year. The school will be the host site for a cluster Saturday school program called the George B Thomas Saturday School. The George B Thomas Saturday School Program is named for George B. Thomas, an educator in Montgomery County who established the Saturday school program many years ago to offer additional support and program enrichment for students who were not experiencing success in Mont- gomery County Public Schools. This program currently exists in eight Montgomery County Public Schools’ high schools.

Prince George’s County has now written a grant to bring the cluster Saturday Schools program to West County, and it has decided to implement the program in the High Point cluster of schools. High Point and the feeder elementary and middle schools will offer their students the opportunity to experience a program of additional support and enrichment in order to increase students’ academic success. The high school component may offer a variety of programs, such as support for advanced placement classes, SAT classes, as well as Credit Recovery and academic support. High Point envisions having a parent education component as well. The program will be piloted in the High Point cluster to determine community support and students’ success. It is an exciting opportunity to have this program to offer to students.

Another groundbreaking program coming to High Point this year is the Federal Title I program. The Title I program is a program of federal support and dollars for high poverty schools to support students’ academic success. For the first 2 years of the Title I program, High Point will be under what is called “Targeted Assistance,” or in effect a “pilot program” of limited impact in the school. This program will allow us to work intensively with students who are reading below grade level to help them increase their reading skills (comprehension, fluency, proficiency, vocabulary, etc.) and writing skills so they can be more successful in all of their classes. Upon successful completion of the pilot period, then the entire school is eligible to become a “whole school” Title 1 school, which would then bring additional federal dollars to the entire school.
I may have written this before (remember it is my opinion), and I have found it to be true for me and maybe for you as well. You have no idea what you will be doing 5 years from today. Oh yes, you think you know and believe it, but things change quickly. I can’t predict the future, so I have no way of knowing at this point. Think back 5 years and you’ll see my point. Remember tomorrow is promised to no one.

Question? Do you like a good corn bread? If so, grab a pen and copy this recipe down. In a medium-size bowl, place 3/4 cup sugar, a cup of any flour you have, 1 teaspoon of baking powder, and a pinch of salt. Then mix it well and stir in 1/4 cup of milk and two eggs. Add a 1/2 cup oil (any) and mix well. Now, add a 1/4 cup of creamed corn and 4 heaping tablespoons of corn meal and mix well. Next, prepare a 4x6 pan with butter and coat it well. Bake it in a fast oven on 400 degrees for about 12 minutes. It will not rise and should be golden brown.

On another note, there is a lot of great work happening in the building this summer! The heating/cooling units in half of the building are being replaced, along with the historically leaking pipes. These units only exist in half of the building, so all of the units that exist are being replaced. The other side of the building was built at a different time, so it has a different system. After the first of the building is finished, the other side of the building is scheduled to get central air conditioning. The start date for the second project is unknown. In addition to upgrading the air conditioning and heating, the fire alarm system is also being replaced. The previous system was part of the original construction in 1954, so it was museum quality! The upgrades will ensure everyone’s safety.

The county is projecting a record number of students for this new school year. High Point’s enrollment was over 2,400 students this past year, and the school is anticipating up to 2,600 for the upcoming year. In part, this is due to more students passing their classes and staying in school. Our promotion and graduation rates continue to rise, and the number of students in the building goes with them!

The fall sports season will begin with try-outs on August 12. Athletes should report to the main gym at 2:30 pm. In order to try-out for a fall sport (cheerleading, cross country, football, golf, soccer, and volleyball), each athlete must have a physical. Students and/or parents can retrieve the mandatory athletic packet from the school’s main office during the summer.

There will be a 9th grade parent orientation for the parents of incoming 9th graders in the evening on Aug. 18. High Point High School’s Back to School Night will be held on Tue., Sept. 1, giving parents and guardians the opportunity to meet all of their child’s teachers. High Point’s PTSA will also be at Back to School Night, accepting memberships from parents, teachers, and students.

This year’s officers, President Maria Morales, Vice President Carol Howard, Treasurer Josh Howard, and Secretary Jose Morales, are looking forward to a productive year.

“Every resource counts. That’s why we’ve hit the fundraising circuit to help Meeting Point purchase ship containers that are makeshift classrooms,” he stated. “Money has also been used to buy desks, chairs, blackboards and sewing machines for the kids.”

In putting its mission into practice, Meeting Point has grown rapidly to develop a number of services and programs for its target population. The school now serves 570 children, and there is a health clinic and 8-acre farm to make the organization more self-sufficient.

Lew and Judy had the opportunity to visit Kampala again in 2013. That trip validated their efforts.

“In 2007, Judy met then-nine year old Evelyn. At that time, Evelyn had AIDS and tuberculosis, but she was desperate to learn. When we saw her again in 2013, she was doing well. The medication was working, and she gave Judy a big hug. What a moment,” recalled Lew.

On June 8 of this year, “Mama” visited Riderwood retirement community to meet with members of the management team to pursue one of her next goals: providing services to seniors in Kampala. “She is steadfast in wanting to help others,” noted Lew. In eight years, the Privens have done their part to “repair the world” through their interaction with Meeting Point Kampala.

“The entire experience has changed my perspective in many ways,” he said. “We have so much in this country, and in giving back, you really experience hope.”
