Beltsville Residents Enjoy National Night Out

By Jason Inanga

On Tuesday, August 7, District 6 of the Prince George's Police Department, Beltsville, organized National Night Out for residents. The event was held on the grounds outside the police station and the Beltsville Library and attracted visitors from various places.

The Beltsville News was able to speak to a few people about their experience at the event. Richard, a resident of Beltsville for twenty years, revealed that this was only his second time being able to attend the event due to work constraints. He enjoyed it and said one high point for him was speaking with Senator Jim Rosapepe.

A group of teenagers (Malachi, Jacob, Fernando, Drake, and Joshua) collectively responded and stated that they have lived in Beltsville all their lives and the high point of the event was taking on the challenge from the United States Marines to do 20 pull-ups.

A first-time attendee, who gave his name simply as Hussein, said he had a good time overall and loved the family atmosphere.

Renita, a visitor to the event, said she was excited about the camaraderie shown, especially among the Police Explorers. She said, "It is nice to see young adults at work, showing a sense of pride. I am also excited for the community because it shows their police officers to care about them."

Miss T, in her response to a question from The Beltsville News, said that she has lived in Beltsville for

Rain Doesn't Stop Cub Pack 1031

Pack 1031 has been having fun despite the rain. We went bowling at Bowlero when summer storms canceled our bicycling plans. One of our Tiger parents who is a firefighter had the Riverdale Tower truck come by the bowling alley, and the kids were able to see the truck after the rain stopped. On August 7, we were at National Night Out after the rain came through and had fun with our short Pinewood Derby track.

In August, we hope our creek walk won't be canceled by rain. We will also be taking a few minutes to clean up trash along the creek. The scouts will learn about how plastic bags get into the streams and why it's important to "trash your trash."

We are now working towards the beginning of our new scout year and are reaching out to families with both boys and girls, grades kindergarten to 5th, who want to do family scouting.

Rainy day activity: bowling with scouts

Lions (rising kindergarteners) can join at the beginning of the school year in September. All year the pack has activities including camping, hiking, our annual Pinewood Derby, and campfires. We also do participatory citizenship along Little Paint Branch Trail, our toy drive, and Scouting for Food. Along the way, we learn responsibility, practice citizenship, play games, and have tons of fun.

If you are interested in discovering the fun of Cub Scouts with your child, please contact Regina Halper at Pack1031CubScouting@gmail.com for more information.

Karen Coakley

The Citizens Association will meet on Wednesday, September 19, at 7 pm. We meet at Beltsville Academy, 4300 Wicomico Avenue.

Officer Castro from the COPS unit will be our guest speaker. If you have specific concerns that you would like to discuss at the meeting, please send your question to me by September 15. You can email or call me.

There will be a bipartisan candidates' forum for District 21 House of Delegates and State Senate Monday, October 1, 6–9 pm, at Martin Luther King Middle School.

Have you signed up for Nextdoor to receive community and police information? You can do so at www.nextdoor.com.

For community issues with the county, contact 311 and then follow up with the District 1 county council office: councildistrict1@co.pg.md.us or 301.952.3887. For problems with state roads (Route 1/Baltimore Avenue, Route 212/Powder Mill Road, Route 201/Edmonston) and state agencies, contact District 21 at District21delegation@gmail.com or 301.858.3141.

Business in Beltsville—Meet Jay Williams Design Company

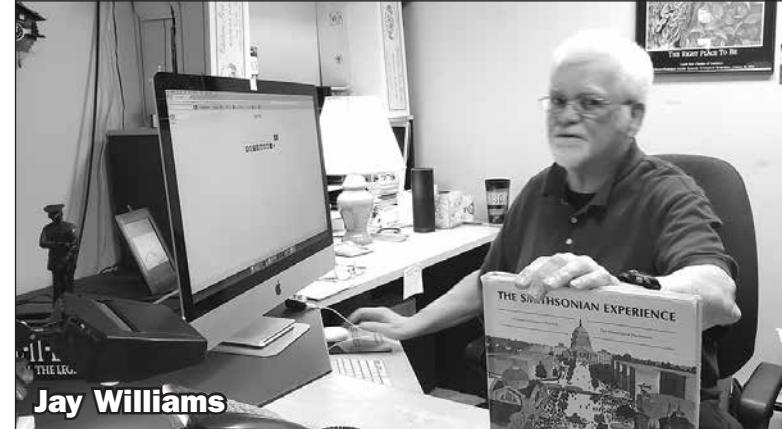

By Jason Inanga

The Beltsville News is committed to promoting businesses in the community, and in every issue, we would love to run a small feature on your business. In this issue, please meet Jay Williams of Jay Williams Design Company, JWDC. He discovered Beltsville in 1975 and chose to relocate from Bowie.

Jay Williams says that, at 77 years of age, he is no way ready to retire from business, one that he has been involved in since he was 20 years old. Before we reveal what Jay does, The Beltsville News would like to thank him for sharing his story with us.

Born and raised in Baltimore, Jay remembers living in a water house in an area known as Middle River (close to White Marsh). He had a job in Washington, DC, and would commute daily. He eventually moved to Annapolis, where he continued commuting to DC. In search of a shorter commute, he moved to Bowie and eventually ended up in Beltsville in 1975. He has not left!

Jay says, "I am a visual communicator. I provide websites, very large wall and window murals, as well as brochures, photography, and bronze sculptures." He has provided services to many organizations in Washington, DC, hospitals, schools, the Smithsonian, and the US Capitol, among others.

However, his early years started off in the Air Force, where he learned to be a radio technician. Art, to him, came naturally. He created a portfolio and eventually got a job at a design studio, following his desire to develop in his new field. He eventually got a job at McCormick as a package designer. He also designed potato chip bags.

He grew in the design industry, moving on to work with the Barton Gillette Company, where he became an award-winning director.

After six years with that company, he interviewed with the two top graphic design companies in Washington, DC, at the time; joined one of them; and continued winning awards, including the prestigious ABA Award.

After nine years with that company in downtown DC, rising to become an executive director, he decided the time was ripe to go solo, so he started JW Design Company in 1979, and almost immediately, things got very busy for him. His first office was in Silver Spring, MD.

His was one of the first companies to adopt technology. So in his words, he jumped into the technology era right away in 1985 when no other design companies were using it. He spoke fondly of the early days of Adobe Illustrator and Photoshop (tools used by many in the graphic design industry).

Jay Williams loves Beltsville for the convenience of location between Baltimore and Washington, DC. Please visit his website for more details at www.jwdc.com, and be sure to drop him a note and say you read about him in The Beltsville News.

Building Bridges with our Police Department

By Jason Inanga

Headed by Sergeant Erika Monroe, there is a group of police officers based at the District 6 Station, Beltsville, of the Prince George's County Police Department, who are very actively involved in creating a closer connection with the community in which they have been called to serve.

Community Oriented Policing Services, COPS, is a bridge between the Community and Law Enforcement. The COPS Unit goes out and does the face to face policing, addressing citizens concerns, and in the process frees up law enforcement resources to deal with other matters.

"Beltsville is part of a County-wide initiative," pointed out Sergeant Monroe, as we sat in her office for a brief interview. COPS overall is headquartered in the Community Services Division, located in Landover, Maryland.

They are actively involved in Community Meetings, the annual Toys for Tots program and also handing out food baskets to the needy. This is in addition to other police-related duties they have to deal with.

COPS also reaches out to the youth in the Beltsville and North Laurel areas, covered by District 6. This is done through the Explorer's Program headed by Corporal Hibbert. The Explorers in Beltsville has one of the biggest programs in the County, with at least 100 members. This program is exclusively for young people in Middle School and High School. Younger children ages seven to nine years old can join a different club, Junior Investigators. However, there are certain requirements needed, which include good grades, among other things. Application forms and more details can be obtained through a brief visit to the Police Station located next to the Beltsville Public Library.

COPS in Beltsville has five officers assigned to it. Readers are encouraged to attend the Coffee Club meetings held on the first Thursday of every month at the Laurel Senior Center on Contee Road. Meetings start at 1 pm.

On a regular basis, Beltsville News will liaise with COPS, to provide information that will keep the channels of communication open.

Jason's Jive

By Jason Inanga

Hello, my dear reader. Welcome to another issue of "Jason's Jive." So much has happened in such a short time. Big thumbs up to Sergeant Erika Monroe and her team for helping to coordinate the National Night Out on August 7. It was a fun event. It was nice to see the community and our friends turn out in numbers, and I am happy it did not rain that evening. It was great to see young people participating. The Beltsville Broncos Pathfinders Club had a very interesting foosball set up. They fabricated a full-size foosball arena, and it was popular among the teenagers. I just might give it a try next year —be a teenager once again before I hit that number of years (No way! I am not revealing my age—the most I will say is I am blessed to be born in the best month of the year—keep on guessing).

In this issue of "Jason's Jive," I will share with you something very interesting I have seen. I work in Baltimore, and no, I am not going to bore you with all the sad stories about Baltimore. Instead, permit me to share with you a development I have observed that will change the landscape in a very positive way.

If you have ever been to the Baltimore Zoo, you may have seen Druid Park Lake. The landscape is in the process of being altered. A $140 million project, scheduled for completion in March 2020, will include wider walkways, an area for fishing and kayaking, an amphitheater, and an improved drinking water supply to the city.

I will share a picture with you of what things look like now, and I am sure a search online will reveal more details on the project. I am excited because, although it is a short drive from Beltsville to Baltimore, I may learn to kayak there before taking on the challenge of kayaking down a river someday.

For this issue of The Beltsville News, I was able to sit down with Jay Williams of JWDC, and in doing a feature on his business, I discovered that there is a rich heritage in Beltsville. He made me curious when he mentioned the fact that, near to the Beltsville Volunteer Fire Department on Rhode Island Avenue, there used to be a meat market. So if any reader has a story or two on the early days of Beltsville, I would like to hear from you, and if you have access to photos that can be shared, that would be awesome.

It feels good to be writing once again. I started my writing career in high school in 1983 when an article I wrote as homework made it into the school magazine thanks to my English teacher at the time, Jennifer Beaken, who was visiting from England. It was almost a year later that at morning assembly the principal spoke about the magazine, The Microcosm, and then went on to launch it at assembly by reading an article titled "Teacher's Race." We had just been introduced to satirical writing, and there I was, seated with everyone, laughing at the manner in which the teachers were portrayed. I had no idea that it was my article from a year prior. Anyway, in the end, the principal (actually we called him Canon) asked if the writer of the article would stand up. He called my name, and I very shyly stood up in disbelief. I was happy, though, that I was present at assembly, for had I been late that day, it may not have been such a happy ending. (I used to ride a bicycle to school and would stop by two other classmates for them to join me. We would ride to school together, sometimes getting to school as the gate was being closed.)

Well, this Jive will be short as I got to make sure I have room for photographs. Have a nice month of September.

Tech Sense By John Bell

Back-to-School: 2018 Edition

Printers

It's that time of year again, and this month we have our annual back-to-school column. This year, let's start by taking a look at the equipment your student may need.

The Computer

Most students heading off for college will need a laptop computer. If your student is in a science, technology, engineering, or math (STEM) program, you should be looking for a computer with an Intel Core i5 CPU, 8 gigabytes of RAM, a 512-gigabyte or larger hard drive, and a 1920 by 1080 (or higher) resolution screen. The 15.9-inch screens are large and easy to see for gaming and watching streaming video but may be bulky if the student needs to carry the computer to class. Consider a smaller 14-inch or smaller display if the computer will be carried to class. Built-in Radeon or NVidia graphics give a boost for students also using the computer for gaming or for creating media like photos, video, or other art. Most laptops will also include a built-in web camera.

Students with basic needs to do word processing, browse the web, access email, and run other office-oriented software may find that inexpensive Chromebooks or Celeron-based Windows 10 computers are sufficient for their needs.

All modern laptops should have Wi-Fi for wireless networking, an Ethernet connector for wired networking, Bluetooth for connecting to headsets, keyboards, and mice, plus USB 2 and USB 3 ports for connecting other devices. Headphone jacks and video ports (HDMI or VGA) should also be included. Battery life should be at least 4 hours, and a removable battery is a plus.

A printer is often necessary for printing assignments. For most students, a low-cost inkjet printer should be sufficient. Look for a printer that has separate ink tanks for each color: black, yellow, cyan, and magenta. Some printers may have two black ink tanks or have more colors including grey to be able to print better photos. These features are typically not important for most student work. Also look for printers with affordable ink tanks available from third parties. Canon and Brother are both good examples. Duplex printing where the printer can automatically print on both sides of the paper is also useful and saves paper. Consider an all-in-one inkjet that includes a scanner as well.

Inexpensive laser printers are faster and less expensive to operate than inkjet printers, but these laser printers typically do not print in color. Laser printers are not recommended because most students do not print a large number of pages and wouldn't benefit from the savings.

Some printers can be connected wirelessly. A wireless printer can be placed anywhere in the dorm room and does not need to be connected by a cable to print.

Other Computer Accessories

A wireless mouse and keyboard are useful so the student doesn't have to sit right next to the laptop as they are working in the dorm room. USB or wireless Bluetooth speakers will provide better sound from the computer. Bluetooth has the advantage in that it will work with a phone or tablet as well. The student should also have several USB thumb drives or an external hard drive to back up their files. Cloud backup services like Microsoft's OneDrive or Google Drive are both good alternatives for backup and file sharing.

If the computer has an HDMI output and the student has a TV, then an HDMI cable allows the computer to be plugged into the TV for display. Chromecast or a Roku that supports Miracast can also be used to send the screen output to a TV.

A powered USB hub supports plugging peripherals like a printer, an extra hard drive, DVD drive, speakers, wired keyboard, wired mouse, and microphones or headsets to the computer. A major advantage to using the hub for this is that there is only one wire that needs to be disconnected from the laptop to take the computer with you. A powered hub can better support power-hungry accessories like hard drives. Don't forget to pack the USB cables to connect these devices.

A computer cable lock should also be purchased so the computer can be locked to the student's desk. It seems computers disappear quickly from dorm and study rooms if not locked down.

Tablets

I personally do not care to take notes on my computer. Instead, I use a tablet (my current choice is an 8-inch Asus Zen tablet that sells for less than $130 on Amazon). Tablets are smaller, lighter weight, and easier to carry than laptops, and I can easily share the files with my computer. Tablets are also good tools for storing and reading e-books, including textbooks. Most tablets can be used with a small Bluetooth keyboard if you are not comfortable with using the on-screen keyboard. While I find tablets to be ideal for taking notes, I prefer a computer to create longer documents like papers.

Calculators

Unless there is a specific class requirement, I do not recommend buying a calculator for a college student. The computer, phone, or tablet should be sufficient. Simply use the installed calculator program or download and use one that meets your needs. There may be some classes that require the use of a calculator with certain capabilities and will not allow a computer or phone to be used for exams. In this case, a calculator will be needed, but the allowed calculators will often be specific to the class. That's it for this month. Have a great first day of school!

Rosapepe's Report to Beltsville

Meet US Senator Ben Cardin in Beltsville September 5

Senator Cardin (D, Maryland) is coming to Beltsville at 6:30 pm, September 5, to hear our concerns and update us on national issues, including health insurance, drug prices, the Supreme Court, Russian interference in our elections, and federal jobs and contracts. To get the location (which was not confirmed at press time), just call 240.233.6883 or go to 21stdistrictdemocraticteam.com on the web.

"Senator Cardin wants to hear from us," said Senator Jim Rosapepe, who, along with Delegates Barbara Frush, Joseline Peña-Melnyk, and Ben Barnes, invited him. "He's been a strong champion of BARC, MARC, Laurel Hospital, the University of Maryland, and our local schools. I hope you can join us."

2018 Greater Beltsville Charity Golf Classic—Friday, September 14

For the seventh year, the Greater Beltsville Business Association (GBBA) will host its annual Greater Beltsville Charity Golf Tournament on Friday, September 14, from 7:30 am–2:30 pm at Patuxent Greens Golf Club. All proceeds are given back to our community. For more information, contact BeltsvilleBusiness@gmail.com or 301.343.5584. Hope you can support this great cause!

Homeowners' Property Tax Credit—September 1 application deadline

This program is for homeowners with a combined gross household income of $60,000 or less. It allows credits against the homeowners' property tax bill, but the taxes must exceed a fixed percentage of a person's gross income. It sets a limit on the amount of property taxes a homeowner must pay based on income. Income is defined as the gross income before any deductions are taken. Non-taxable retirement benefits such as Social Security and Railroad Retirement must be reported as income. You must apply every year no later than September on a standard application supplied by the Department of Assessments and Taxation. Example: If your combined household income is $16,000, your tax limit is $420. You would be entitled to receive a credit for any taxes above the $420. If your actual property tax bill is $990, you would receive a tax credit in the amount of $570, the difference between the actual tax bill and the tax limit. Apply at this link: <http://dat.maryland.gov/realproperty/Pages/Homeowners'-Property-Tax-Credit-Program.aspx>.

Renters' tax credit—September 1 application deadline

If a renter is over age 60 and has less than $200,000 in assets, the renter is eligible to receive a tax credit of up to $1,000. Also, Prince George's County gives an additional credit of 50% of the state credit, so the maximum credit in Prince George's is $1500. The renters must be living in a building where the owner is paying real estate taxes (i.e., not a government-owned building). The deadline for filing is September 1. The application and instructions are on the Department of Assessments website <http://dat.maryland.gov/realproperty/Pages/Renters'-Tax-Credits.aspx> or call 410.767.4433.

Student Loan Tax Credit—September 15 application deadline

The tax credit will be available to Maryland taxpayers who: 1. File Maryland state income taxes for the tax year; 2. Have incurred at least $20,000 undergraduate and graduate student loan debt; 3. Have at least $5,000 in outstanding student loan debt remaining when applying for the tax credit; 4. Have completed and applied to the Maryland Higher Education Commission by September 15, 2018; and 5. Have submitted all required graduate and undergraduate student loan information, including Maryland income tax information and college transcripts. To download the application, visit mhec.maryland.gov and click "File for the 2018 Tax Credit."

The Beltsville Young at Heart Club

The Beltsville Young at Heart Club had its annual July picnic at the second meeting of the month. Everyone brought wonderful food to be shared by all.

The members had a great time in the paddle wheeler eating crabs while cruising on the river. This was the bus trip to Suicide Bridge Restaurant. It is always a good one.

On September 27, the club will take a trip to Kentmorr Restaurant in Stevensville for a crab feast. This trip is almost full, so check with Shirley Denell at 301.937.5342 right away. There will also be a stop at the Annapolis Amish Farmers Market. A true friend understands where you come from, believes in where you are going, and wants to travel with you.

The Prince George's County Genealogical Society

The Prince George's County Genealogical Society (PGCGS) will meet on Wednesday, September 5, at 7 pm. Our speaker will be Andrew Hochreiter, noted DNA expert who frequently writes and lectures on the subject. Due to construction at our usual New Carrollton meeting facility, the meeting will be at our genealogy library, 12219 Tulip Grove Drive, Bowie, MD, until further notice. Please visit our Facebook page for our most current information at <https://www.facebook.com/pgcgeology/> or our website at <http://pgcgs.org/>.

Calling All Crab Lovers to Unite at Post #217

By Ivy Christoffers

A bodacious crab feast is scheduled for September 15 from 2 until 5 pm at the American Legion post in College Park, located at 9218 Baltimore Blvd. A great opportunity to get your fill of our famous Maryland Blue Crabs (red when you eat them). Yes, it is an all-you-can-eat feast of crabs, crab soup, corn on the cob, hamburgers, and hot dogs. All this costs only $45 in advance or $50 at the door. This is always a popular event, so you want to call 301.441.2783 to order your tickets or stop in at the post any day between noon and 8 pm to pick up tickets. We do love our crabs, don't we?

Give 10 For Education is an annual program of the American Legion Auxiliary to help provide school supplies for our area elementary schools. Many of our young students cannot afford to purchase these items, and many school teachers are finding it necessary to provide these supplies. This is an area where you/we can make a difference. A school supplies drive is held during August and September by College Park

Unit #217. You may drop off whatever donations you may have at the post home from noon until 8 pm daily. If you can provide 10 of each item, great. If not, whatever school supplies you donate will be greatly appreciated. If you would like to make a monetary donation, we will shop for you.

On August 31, a delicious spaghetti dinner will be held at the American Legion post home from 5 until 7:30 pm. This is a fundraiser to help support our veteran's programs. We will serve spaghetti with meat sauce, salad, garlic bread, dessert, and coffee all for $8.50. Our free Friday night dance to live music follows at 8 pm. We aim to please. Come, enjoy the food, fun, and fellowship.

Another event coming up on September 15 is our annual Charlotte Hall Veterans Home summer carnival. This year our theme is The Wild, Wild West. This is a great event every year where we entertain the men and women residing at Charlotte Hall, showering them with our love and gratitude for their service to our great country. Everyone has a ball.

Remember that our weekly bingos are still taking place on Tuesday and Wednesday at noon, our Friday night dinner dances are held each week, and our lovely hall is available for your special event. Also, consider joining the American Legion family, if you qualify, because we are very active in supporting our active military, our veterans, our youth, and our community. Now that football season is once again on the calendar, our post home is very welcoming to those who wish to spend their Sunday nights or Monday nights viewing football with like-minded friends.

Keep our troops in your prayers as they serve selflessly in the cause for peace, and may God continue to bless America. Until next month, I remain yours in service, not self.

Local Designer, Design Firm Succeed, Win Awards

By Todd Reitzel

George Reader was fresh out of college with a degree in art when he moved to the Washington, DC, area in 1978. Looking for work due to closing factories in his native Pennsylvania, he applied for an interior landscaping position at a local firm and got the job.

"I was looking for a great creative opportunity to interact with other people, and I thought it would be fun," says Reader.

Forty years later, Reader has crafted an accomplished career in design. He has worked in recent years for Ambius, the company that bought his initial employer. Ambius has locations across the nation, including a DC-area office in Beltsville. Located at the Ammendale Business Campus, Ambius employs a team that designs, produces, and installs landscapes to enhance commercial spaces. The firm has 50 employees in the area and adds about 30

The Beltsville News also spoke to two people who are well known on the political scene, Senator Jim Rosapepe and Lee Havis, his opponent in the upcoming elections for a seat on the Maryland Senate.

Lee Havis spoke first and said that he was motivated by the large number of people. "This is a huge turnout of people today. It has been very encouraging meeting voters, and I have an overall positive experience today," he said.

Senator Rosapepe, in his comments, acknowledged the large turnout of people and said that it shows the people of Beltsville are enthusiastic. He went on to say that it is important to see everyone come together and he was excited about the opportunities for jobs for

Tending One's Own Garden: Continuities in American Garden History

The Beltsville Garden Club will meet on Wednesday, September 26, at 7:30 pm at the James Duckworth School, 11201 Evans Trail, Beltsville, MD. Please join us for Tending One's Own Garden: Continuities in American Garden History, a presentation by Justin Shapiro, environmental history doctoral candidate at the University of Maryland, College Park.

The American garden has historically stood as a place of refuge. More than a provider of beauty, shade, and the occasional ripe tomato, the garden has been seen by Americans also as a powerful mental and spiritual retreat from the hectic pace of change in the outside world. In this presentation, Mr. Shapiro traces the ideological significance of the garden for Americans over the course of the past two hundred and fifty years. In that time, he believes the garden as an idea has remained remarkably stable: it has stood as a place separate from the outside world. This talk is divided into five distinct chronological periods: The Early Republic (1781-1850), Industrialization (1860-1910), the Great Depression and World War II (1929-1945), Suburbanization (1945-1960), and the Environmental Movement (1965-1980). In each period, it can be shown how American societies at different times understood the garden as something that stood in opposition to larger environmental changes. Although each society understood the value of the garden differently, the notion of the garden as a refuge from the world outside remained remarkably consistent.

Please bring refreshments to share and a plant or plant-related item for the door prize table. The public is welcome to attend, and there is no fee.

Beltsville Seventh-day Adventist Yard Sale on September 2

The Women's Ministry of the Beltsville Seventh-day Adventist Church is inviting the public to participate in its annual yard sale on Sunday, September 2, from 8 am to 2 pm.

According to the Women's Ministry leader, Vanessa Moulder, "The event is open to the general public. It will take place in the parking lot and lawn at the church located in the 4000 block of Ammendale Road." She indicated that the event is a fundraiser for other activities that the group hosts. She said that other activities that are hosted by the women include a tea party (May), a chili cook-off (March), and Bags for the Homeless (December).

Encouraging the public to come out, she said, "It is a nice time to connect with the community. It is always nice to see repeat participants from the community. Last year, we had the highest number of sellers ever."

Spaces range from $15 to $20, and setup will be an hour before the event starts.

Further details can be obtained by reaching Vanessa Moulder directly at 301.660.6035 or via email at beltsvillewm@gmail.com.

seasonal employees for the holiday season.

"One of the most amazing things about our DC team is their commitment to quality and excellence," boasts Reader.

The success of Reader and his Ambius colleagues was recognized earlier this year by AmericanHort, North America's largest organization of landscaping and horticultural professionals. At this year's International Plantscape Awards, Ambius won 27 awards, including one for Reader's 2017 holiday design at Reston Town Center in Virginia.

Reader's design included 170 lighted trees, 14 of which were at least 45 feet tall. Reader began his design work in the spring of 2017 and spent about 120 hours designing the various components to meet the town center's goals. The Ambius team then spent numerous weeks between Labor Day and Thanksgiving installing the design in time for the holiday shopping season.

Reader's award-winning design extended over 9 square blocks at the town center and included about 160 thousand lights. It also included a significant kinetic presence (moving lights) to give viewers an energizing experience.

The Reston project is only Reader's latest creation. Throughout his career, he has been involved in numerous other projects, including Tysons Galleria, Fair Oaks Mall, and the Mobil Corporation headquarters.

"There's a lot of dedication and commitment by the holiday team, and it starts with the production team in Beltsville," says Reader. "Then we had dedicated installation crews on site. We were all genuinely excited about bringing great holiday experience."

people in Beltsville based on some of the corporate participants who used the event to share information on employment opportunities. He ended by saying Beltsville had the biggest night out in Prince George's County.

One employer was the Maryland Department of Transportation, MDOT, represented by Kerry McCoy and Darlene Thorns. They said it was their first time at the event and they were there to meet the community and share information on job opportunities. McCoy indicated that they have many entry-level job openings that provide state benefits, starting pay of about $14.50 an hour, and even CDL training. Entry-level jobs accept an 8th grade education, and one has to be 18 years or more and have a driver's license. The representatives gave out over 50 applications at the event.

Sergeant Erika Monroe of the PG County Police Department, District 6, was responsible for coordinating the entire event. In brief comments to The Beltsville News, she said planning the night out was much work, but based on the results, the hard work paid off. She said, even though it was her first time organizing the event, her staff said things ran very smoothly this year. Some feedback reaching her described it as the best night out in PG County.

Bryanna's Love: A Childhood Cancer Foundation

Bryanna's Love was founded in honor of Bryanna Kitchen, who passed away from a rare form of leukemia on October 24, 2016. She was only nine years old. Bryanna's Love was founded with the following three missions: to offer stuffed animals and blankets to children and their families undergoing treatment for childhood cancer through our Give Kids A Snuggle program, to offer a respite trip to bereaved siblings and parents due to the loss of a child from childhood cancer within one year of their loss through our Sibling Love program, and to help fund pediatric cancer research. To help raise money to further our initiatives in an effort to help more children and their families, we would love to invite you to attend our first annual Give Kids A Snuggle Family Fun Walk/Run on September 8 (rain date September 22) from 9 am–2 pm at Laurel Lakes/Granville Gude Park. In addition to the 1-mile walk/run around Laurel Lake, we will have a diaper dash and toddler tumble as well as many other family-friendly activities, which include inflatables, bouncing houses, face painting, music, and so much more!
